

- Agent systems

Remember the reason, too.

A blurry photograph wins a place in an exhibition because it shows the community kitchen people came to remember.

Community

Architecture

An imagined local-history project.

- Agent systems

The selected file tells half the story.

A sharper image might show the building clearly while leaving out what mattered to this exhibition.

Community

Architecture

Different pictures serve different purposes.

- Agent systems

Next year asks a different question.

An exhibition about architecture could make the sharper photograph the useful choice.
The earlier reason helps explain why.

Keep the context available.

- Agent systems

Carry forward more than the result.

A useful record can include what mattered,
what was uncertain and what would support
another choice.

What mattered
What was uncertain
What could change

A proposed agent-memory design.

- Agent systems

A memory can help someone reconsider.

Retrieval and reflection appear in Generative Agents. This example asks what makes a decision reusable in a new situation.

